EDUCATION

Northeastern University School of Law,
J.D.

Connecticut College, B.A.

Overview

Sophia earned her J.D. from Northeastern University School of Law, where she served as a Senior Editor of the Northeastern University Law Review and as a Certified Student Attorney in Northeastern's Domestic Violence Clinic. She also was a Student Attorney for the school's Community Business Clinic and served as a Teaching Assistant for Civil Procedure. In addition, Sophia worked as a Research Assistant, conducting research on federal appellate procedure, including en banc practices across the federal circuit courts, as well as other matters of federal law.

While earning her J.D., Sophia gained litigation experience in both the federal judiciary and private practice. She served as a Judicial Intern to the Honorable Allison D. Burroughs of the United States District Court for the District of Massachusetts, where she worked on a range of civil and criminal matters. Sophia also clerked at civil litigation firms in the Boston area, where she worked on personal injury, medical malpractice, and other complex civil matters at various stages of litigation.

Sophia earned her B.A. from Connecticut College, where she majored in Government and minored in Economics and Human Development. She also completed the College's Media, Rhetoric, and Communication Pathway. Sophia also competed on the College's Varsity Women's Volleyball team, and was selected for the NESCAC Fall All-Academic team.
